

1. A kiosk for providing multiple functions comprising:
 - a communications port;
 - a microprocessor;
 - a user interface; and
 - a payment device, wherein the microprocessor is operable to connect to a service provider through the communications port and provide multiple functions and services to a user including advertisements, broadcast programs, the ability to purchase merchandise, and the ability to purchase postage.